

WIRE MESH WELDING MACHINE

Welded mesh is widely used in construction. With rapid development of roads and prefabricated building technology, this equipment is gaining popularity in all countries because it saves material and site manpower cost. NiveSal provide fully automatic and also semi-automatic options to cater to different market segments in terms of investment and output capacities.